

On The Purpose of Humanity on Earth

Glenn Tramm II, BICT, MBA, FRC

“LOWLY AND IGNORANT as thou art, O man! humble as thou oughtest to be, O child of the dust! wouldst thou raise thy thoughts to infinite wisdom? wouldst thou see omnipotence displayed before thee? Contemplate thine own frame.”¹

Why are we here? What is the purpose of us being here? The wise contemplate upon these questions carefully, but the fool just live life to die another day. Although religions attempt to address this question with clarity and certainty, they cleverly fail to convey a meaningful explanation to our real and true purpose on this physical plane. In a sense, it always relates back to a promotion of obedience of their man-made or religious laws, which by the way fails many times to uphold the true laws - Natural Laws.

The human race has been, at least in this world, the center of attention by many mystics and scientists alike. However, there is this question that I feel that even the (young) mystic is missing the gist of. I feel that the point has not been duly addressed, and the subject has not been fully discussed or comprehended by mystics, even to the “most high” Magus. Here I am again, the amount of time I cannot recall as my memory fails me now in this matter, feeling like a “voice in the wilderness”. I will attempt once more, out of love, and for the sake of the God of my Heart, to rekindle the true fire in each and every one of us. I, by the grace of God, entreat every mystic, to consider and contemplate upon these with earnest and a sincere heart.

¹ Unto Thee I Grant The Economy Of Life, Book Eight, MAN CONSIDERED IN THE GENERAL, CHAPTER I., Of the Human Frame and Structure P.51

The purpose of the human race, (other sources may refer our race as the fallen “Adam Kadmon”, “Sophia’s Spouse”, et al.), is three-fold in nature, mainly;

- Providence;
- Destiny;
- Desire.

The three being an illusion, because they are, in essence, One. The fallen race- the human race, has not altered the primordial purpose in any sense because of the fall. If anything, we have incurred upon ourselves more work to be done. Apart from fulfilling our True Purpose, we would need to ascent from our fallen, lower conscious state.

Let us now magnify and discuss the three above mentioned purposes in more detail;

Providence ought to be seen not only as the protective care of God, but also as the ultimate goal of creating the universe. The universe has not been created for mystics to have “power” in order to showcase this to the world – even in secrecy. The universe has been created to give the true God, The ALL-NOTHING, a “mirror to look into”. In other words, the universe is where The ALL-NOTHING expresses Himself fully. The universe is pure potentiality. We as a human race, even unto the physical realm, have the privilege of being part of this experience in order to also enjoy it fully.

The universe, from the beginning down to the physical plane, is governed by Natural Laws, albeit expressed differently on each plane of existence. The only place that this is not true, is in The ALL-NOTHING Himself, where everything is once again - ONE. This is a subject that many mystics disagree with me to some point. However, the crux of the matter is that the failure to understand this simple truth, births erroneous beliefs.

Our purpose here, from our Primordial Conscious State down to our fallen state, has been, is and will ever be to foster the experience of self-reflection of The ALL-NOTHING. In a way, the ALL-NOTHING is trying to understand Himself more fully through us.

This conclusion is only difficult to reach, if there is no recollection on your end on the purpose of Natural Laws and/or if there is no full understanding of the planes of creation.

Providence, therefore, is the plan of the universe being seen from the “eyes” of The ALL-NOTHING. We have to willingly align our heart, thoughts and ultimately our behavior in accord to Providence. This is possible by being a person that lives in accord and harmony with Natural Laws, which by doing so, monitors and keeps the universe in balance. This is, therefore, purpose “numero uno”.

Destiny, in general, is a subject that many uniformed mystics will plainly deny being even real. Their conclusion leans on the failure of their thoughts and they ponder on the subject as an impossibility, because they reckon themselves as the ruler and/or masters of their lives. Even though this as a general rule is true, the overarching reality is that Destiny is alive and kicking! Lo and behold, a Divine Paradox. This truth can only be concluded, once the student familiarizes themselves with the subject of Metempsychosis. Every Man-Soul is on the path to perfection. This, following the thoughts of great thinkers, and according to the Law of Evolution, doesn't happen in a single life-time. Every time Man-Soul Reincarnate, they come to develop predefined qualities that they have chosen by free-will. That is what is meant when referred to the subject of Destiny. You can contemplate also that Destiny, is Providence, to a lower degree. Because, fulfilling your Destiny in this life-time provides every individual the platform, in a sense, to help them fulfill Providence. However, this also, needs to be done with a willing heart. The thinking student can never come to this point unless the subject of Metempsychosis is dealt with in its true sense. Destiny, is consequently, purpose “numero dos”.

Desire is the only subject that mystics would agree on collectively. The reason is that it is the most egocentric subject of them all, and everybody can relate to their own self-indulgent life. Your desire is the thing you so longed for. It is also the main reason why you are here – to experience that physical part of the world not yet discovered in previous life-time. It is the life that many of us understand. Please do not misconstrue my words, life is meant to be enjoyed, but it becomes more meaningful if we align our desires with our destinies. Our experience on earth becomes burdensome if we desire and accumulate material things just for the sake of having them and to realize afterwards that the “thing” you expect to give you so much joy end up being your worst nightmare. Nonetheless, every type of desire needs to be fulfilled for your progression, attunement, and betterment of your soul, not without paying your due price of course. Desire, is purpose “numero tres”.

True Desire, therefore, is in harmony with true Destiny. True Destiny is in harmony with Providence. This completes the cycle, and from the simplest desire, the mere mortal is charged to do his/her part in creation.

For the world you might be just an individual, but for me, as one individual, you are the world. We are One and the same.

*Written with love,
Peace Profound.*
